Introduction of Second Saturday Working for Enhanced Parent-Teacher Communication

Meaningful communication between teachers and parents is not merely a formality - it is the cornerstone of a child's academic progress and overall well-being.

In the current academic schedule, parents often wait until the end-of-term Parent-Teacher Meetings (PTMs) to discuss their child's progress or share concerns with subject teachers. This communication gap delays important feedback between teachers and parents by several weeks. During this time, timely interventions are missed. We believe every child deserves prompt attention, and every parent deserves to be heard without waiting until the term ends.

To bridge this gap and encourage deeper, more individualized communication, the school will be open for all parents on every second Saturday (In addition to our regular PTMs) exclusively for parent-teacher interaction from 9:00 AM to 12:00 Noon.

On these dedicated Saturday mornings, parents are encouraged to visit the school and meet subject teachers. Whether you want to discuss your child's academic performance, seek guidance on improvement areas, share observations from home, or have a positive conversation about your child's progress, these Saturdays are meant for that.

We encourage all parents to make the most of this time for meaningful interactions with their child's teachers.

Warm regards,

Dr. S. Srinivasan
Principal
